Robin Shrestha

Global Health and Food Systems Policy Expert

Former Associate Director, Feed the Future Food Systems for Nutrition Innovation Lab at Tufts University with 15+ years of global development expertise

robin.shrestha811@gmail.com

Linkedin

Contact

16 Years of experience

Professional Bio:

Robin is an accomplished Medical Doctor and expert in Food Systems Policy, Research, and Evaluation, with over 17 years of experience spanning clinical practice, patient care standards, quality improvement, applied research, and health, nutrition, and governance policy development. Robin is adept at designing and implementing large-scale initiatives in global health, food security, nutrition, and community development. He has a proven track record of leading multi-country research efforts, developing governance metrics, and establishing scalable evaluation frameworks. Robin brings strong expertise in Monitoring, Evaluation, and Learning (MEL), as well as in both quantitative and qualitative research methodologies. He is also highly skilled in fostering strategic public-private partnerships and translating complex scientific findings into actionable policies and programmatic decisions.

Skills & Expertise:

MEL, Project Management, Grants Management, Policy Development, Capacity Strengthening, Global Health, Humanitarian Assistance, Private Sector Engagement, Water, Sanitation, and Hygiene Climate & Resilience, Stakeholder Engagement, Proposal Writing, Budget & Finance, Agriculture & Food Security, Strategic Planning

Sectors of Work:

International Development; Public Health, Technology & Innovation

Languages Spoken:

English, Nepali, Indian

Chinese

JOIN US

contact@wice.org.